This website links to a wide range of information and services.

Please note that links to other sites are monitored but we cannot be held responsible for information contained in other sites. We provide the links for your own convenience and do not endorse the content. Please refer to individual websites for more information on their own legal statements.

Every effort is made to ensure that all the material on this site is up to date and accurate. However, neither our client nor Durham County Council guarantee the accuracy, reliability, completeness, or timeliness of this website or the content. Changes are periodically made to the website and may be made at any time. We cannot accept any liability, nor in any other way be held responsible, for any damage, disruption or corruption of any user's computer software, hardware or network which may arise as a result of the viewing of this website or its contents.

Although Durham County Council aims to provide constant, uninterrupted access to this website, we do not guarantee this. We accept no responsibility or liability for any interruption or delay.

Unless stated otherwise (for example; that you are viewing information over a secure connection) information transmitted over the internet is not secure and we cannot accept responsibility for misuse of information intercepted in this way.

Our client and Durham County Council do not claim ownership of content submitted or made available to the publicly accessible areas on the website. i.e. those areas on the website accessible to the general public (for example; message boards, postings, etc). Although we take reasonable care to ensure that inappropriate material is not published, and once alerted to such material will take steps to resolve the situation, they assume no responsibility or liability arising from the content of any publicly accessible areas nor for any error or omission contained in any information published by users in these areas.
